Wonderful read Von Philomena (Cheekypee) This is a truly remarkable story. It's a really lovely heart warming story about a little boy called Aaron who is autistic. I've had plenty of experience with children with autism so this story certainly touched my heart. My heart was in my mouth during this story. I so felt for Sharon when she explained about the years of staring she endured. Personally I know how she felt the author did a fantastic job at portraying this. It's also about Aaron's mum Sharon a hot fireman... Will they find love?? You need to read this to find out:) Even though the subject of autism runs through this story I felt this was a really lovely easy-going read. It's a lovely story:) This is the second book I've read by the author I'll certainly be hoping to read more if hers soon. Received in return for an honest review.

Kurzbeschreibung Through Fights and Fire, Prejudice and Passion, Burns A Special Kind of Love A divorced school teacher, estranged from her family, wants to start over. Sharon Daily moves to Gaines, Wyoming with her ten year old autistic son, Aaron. She hoped to find kindness and acceptance in this small town. She wasn't looking for love Tanner West, the Fire Chief of Gaines, seems to have it all. Great job, loving family, and any woman he wants to warm his bed at night. But, Tanner has suffered too. A Native American in a white world, he longs to find love and acceptance. He is ready for more than someone to share his bed. He wants someone to share his life. And Sharon really lights his fire. Making a life with Sharon will require A Special Kind of Love. After over twenty-five years of living a typical life, I now live my dreams and I create them too. Nothing is better than creating a brand new world from a blank piece of paper. Breathing life into characters and watching their stories unfold I am truly blessed. I live in on eight acres in middle Tennessee with my husband, my dad, one of my three children, two dogs and three cats. I am privileged to have two precious grandsons. When I'm not on my computer or reading my kindle, you'll usually find me in the kitchen. I love to cook! If I'm not there, I'm on the fields, watching my grandsons soccer or baseball games. It's never too late to chase your dreams. I'm proof you can catch them, even if arthritis slows you down. Who knows, your own Fairy Godmother may be just a dream away.
