Sci-fi meets the big bad wolf Von Kitzchen Sela Carzen is a master at mixing different legends and lore with each other and creating a compelling story. In this case, sci-fi meets Norse myth and with it Fenrir. The big bad wolf turns out to be the good guy. Add a head-strong female main character and a couple of bad guys and you have an amazing story. Sela's prose is strong and makes you believe you are in the story with the characters.

Kurzbeschreibung Lauren Ivers should be home, reading and eating take-out. Or in her lab, working on new ideas in post-quantum theory. Instead, she's on the run with the bodyguard she didn't know she had in a desperate bid to get off-planet before she becomes a casualty in an intergalactic war. She's sure it's just the adrenaline that has her reacting to her oversized protector with smart-mouthed replies and a full-bodied zingshe wills herself to ignore. Hakon sidUlfr, a wolf-shifter from another world, and Lauren's covert bodyguard, is determined to keep her safe from the Axis aliens hunting her. Not because she's a duty, but because there's something about her that calls to all his primitive and protective instincts. It's a distraction he can't afford as he works to sneak a single, small human across unfamiliar terrain. When Hakon is injured, Lauren realizes that while he was protecting her body, she should have been protecting her heart.

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Sela Carsen was born into a traveling family, then married a military man to continue her gypsy lifestyle. With her husband of 20 years, their two teens, her mother, the dog, and the cat, she's finally (temporarily) settled in the Midwest. Between bouts of packing and unpacking, she writes paranormal romances, with or without dead bodies. Your pick.
