Von Detra Fitch Set in Washington Territory, June 1866. Alexandrina Rina Fosgrave has traveled west to seek a fresh start as a teacher, not to find a groom. To that end, Rina agrees to travel with James Wallin to Wallin Landing for an interview. If all goes well, Rina would become a teacher at Lake Union School. Upon reaching her destination, Rina finds out that the school is brand new and she would be the only teacher. There are only a few students, but the community is growing, as would her class size. James Wallin's family is depending on him to find the new community a schoolteacher. Rina fits the bill perfectly. The problem is how he would convince her to accept the position. Just as the new teacher is settling in, one drunk, threatening parent has Rina reconsidering the position. When Rina and James end up stranded in the wilderness together for a few days, James offers his hand in marriage to protect her reputation. Neither wants to wed or expects to fall in love, but perhaps an engagement of convenience could change that.  FIVE STARS! The character of James is unlike most I have read. He is a tease and jokes often. He can take any dark situation and show you there is still light to be found somewhere. Though his family has known James all his life and loves him deeply, only Rina's character could see what lay behind his glib facade. These are the types of characters that Regina Scott has become a master at crafting. Her characters have multiple layers. They do not fall into any set template. Each is well developed and has their own personality. At the same time, the author keeps the people, their situations, and the world around them true to the time period. That includes Society's rules for the era. Even minor background characters, such as Robert McKenzie who runs an out of the way hostelry, are memorable. (Now there is a character I would love to see again someday!) If you love Romance, you will love this tale by Regina Scott.  Reviewed by Detra Fitch of Huntress Reviews.

Thankfully for literature as we know it, she didn't actually sell her first novel until she had learned a bit more about writing. Since her first book was published in 1998, her stories have traveled the globe, with translations in many languages including Dutch, German, Italian, and Portuguese. She and her husband of over 25 years reside in southeast Washington State.
