Von Lynn Kurland : Star of the Morning (A Novel of the Nine Kingdoms) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Star of the Morning (A Novel of the Nine Kingdoms):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen8 von 11 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Absolute Klasse....Von CustomerIch habe selten einen so humorvollen Fantasyroman gelesen. Es sind gegend Actionszenen (selten so gelacht) dabei, eine Romanze fehlt auch nicht...Insgesamt eine tolle Unterhaltung und jeden Cent wert. Auch der 2. Teil The Mages Daughter ist sehr gut. Ich kann den 3. Teil kaum erwarten. Hier macht man nicht falsch wenn man gut Unterhalten werden will!!

KurzbeschreibungNeroche's kingdom is threatened by the darkness of an evil Black Mage- and all hope lies in the legend of two magical swords. Miach, the archmage of Neroche, carries one. And he's found a Wielder for the other in Morgan, a young woman and feared mercenary herself. Now, Miach must choose between endangering the woman who has captured his heart, and defending the kingdom he's sworn to protect.From BooklistMorgan of Melksham hates magic, but as a favor to her old friend and mentor, she agrees to deliver a magical blade to the King of Neroche. Soon after she begins her quest, Morgan is joined by a stranger, Adhemar, then by three old friends, and later by a man called Miach, who says he is Adhemar's brother. Unbeknownst to Morgan, both Adhemar, who really is the king of Neroche, and Miach, who is actually the archmage of Neroche, have been searching for the person who can wield the sword of Neroche and push back the tide of black magic that threatens their kingdom. Neither Adhemar nor Miach expected that Morgan would be the warrior they sought, nor that one of them would fall hopelessly in love with her. With the first in a splendid new series, Kurland returns to the world of the Nine Kingdoms, which she used as a setting for two earlier novellas, and presents a superbly crafted, sweetly romantic tale of adventure and magic.
